Responding to Sexual Abuse of Inmates in Custody: Addressing the Needs of Men, Women, and Gender Nonconforming Populations
Notification of Curriculum Use
April 2014

The enclosed Responding to Sexual Abuse of Inmates in Custody: Addressing the Needs of Men, Women, and Gender Nonconforming Populations curriculum was developed by the Project on Addressing Prison Rape at American University, Washington College of Law as part of contract deliverables for the National PREA Resource Center (PRC), a cooperative agreement between the National Council on Crime and Delinquency (NCCD) and the Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA). The Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) standards served as the basis for the curriculum’s content and development with the goal of the Responding to Sexual Abuse of Inmates in Custody: Addressing the Needs of Men, Women, and Gender Nonconforming Populations curriculum being to satisfy specific PREA standards requirements.

It is recommended that the Responding to Sexual Abuse of Inmates in Custody: Addressing the Needs of Men, Women, and Gender Nonconforming Populations curriculum be reviewed in its entirety before choosing which modules to use. Any alterations to the original materials require either acknowledgement during their presentation or removal of the PRC and Project on Addressing Prison Rape logos.

BJA is currently undergoing a comprehensive review of the enclosed curriculum for official approval, at which point the BJA logo may be added.

Note: Use of the enclosed curriculum, either in part or whole, does not guarantee that an auditor will find that a facility “meets standards.” Rather, an auditor will take into consideration the curriculum used as part of their overall determination of compliance.

History of Female Inmates in Custody
History of Female Inmates in Custody

Punishment, including institutional punishment, has always been gendered

Correctional institutions have always struggled against sexualization
History of Female Inmates in Custody

Early female inmates were poor women who had deviated from societal expectations of gender norms.

Female inmates subjected to abuse at the hands of male correctional staff.

Female staff introduced to ameliorate poor treatment, putting emphasis on reforming female inmates.
After female correctional staff entry into male correctional facilities, male correctional workers reappeared in female facilities.

Male correctional staff are responsible for most of the staff-perpetrated sexual abuse against female inmates.

Title VII and the Entrance of Women into Corrections
“[i]t shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer— (1) to fail or refuse to hire or to discharge any individual, or otherwise to discriminate against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, because of such individual's race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.”42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a) (2012).
Bona Fide Occupational Qualification

Escape clause to Title VII: the “bona fide occupational qualification” (BFOQ)

Permits employers to discriminate in hiring or firing decisions.

Specifically permits an otherwise discriminatory hiring practice when it is “reasonably necessary to the normal operation of that particular business or enterprise.” 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e)(1) (2012).
Bona Fide Occupational Qualification

_Gunther v. Iowa State Men's Reformatory_, 462 F. Supp. 952 (N.D. Iowa 1979), _aff'd_, 612 F.2d 1079 (8th Cir. 1980) (holding that male gender cannot be used as a BFOQ to keep women out of contact positions).
2001: women made up 24.5% of the correctional workforce in male custodial facilities.

2007: female workers made-up 40% of all correctional staff in adult facilities.

2008: women comprised 42% of juvenile facility staff.
According to the last correctional census in 2005, male employees outnumbered female employees by a ratio of 2 to 1, while men in direct contact positions outnumbered women by a ratio of 3 to 1.

Gender Non-Conforming in Corrections

Difficult to quantify at this time due to lack of data

According to Supreme Court jurisprudence, discrimination sexual orientation or gender identity may receive only intermediate scrutiny.

Title VII does not offer protection for sexual orientation or gender identity, but state civil rights statutes may. See e.g., Sexual Orientation Non-Discrimination Act, Ch. 2, 2002 N.Y. Laws 46
Institutions as sexualized living and working environments
Women working in male-dominated occupations are not necessarily received as equals

Masculine atmosphere, where sexually explicit comments and derogatory language is the norm
Sexual Harassment

Sexual Discrimination

Women may experience paternalistic protection from male co-workers

Difficulty assimilating into the male culture

Women who report sexual harassment may be terminated
Sexual Assault

Female staff may experience sexual assault from both co-workers and inmates

Encompasses anything from light touching in an inappropriate way, to violent or aggressive behavior
United States v. Kutz, 439 F. App’x 751, 753 (10th Cir. 2011) (affirming male inmate’s assault conviction for inappropriately touching a female correctional officer)

Jones-Bey v. Davis, 80 F. App’x 472, 472 (7th Cir. 2003) (upholding a male inmate’s conviction for assault of female officer, when inmate poked the officer in the buttocks with a piece of rolled-up newspaper).
Gender and staff involvement in sexual abuse of inmates
Female Staff Commit Sexual Misconduct Disproportionate to their Numbers

As noted above, women make up approximately 40% of all adult correctional staff, and approximately 42% of staff in juvenile facilities.

Correctional authorities reported that female staff commit 61% of sexual staff misconduct and 21% of staff harassment.

69% of jail and prison inmates reporting victimization by staff sexual misconduct reported that it was perpetrated by female staff.

A recent survey of former state prisoners found that female staff accounted for roughly 85% of all incidents of staff sexual misconduct.
In a 2010 study, Janet Warren found that male inmates viewed themselves as being sexually predatory towards female correctional officers.

Of the male inmates interviewed:
- 8.7% reported perpetrating noncontact coercive sexual conduct, while 2.8% reported contact sex acts.
- 9.7% reported engaging in noncontact bartered sexual activity, while 8% reported contact bartered sexual activity.
- 24.3% reported engaging in noncontact consensual encounters, and 17.4% reported contact consensual activity.
Female Staff Commit Sexual Misconduct Disproportionate to their Numbers

Surveys of juvenile correctional authorities and youth in custody reflect the same disparity

Women account for 42% of staff in juvenile facilities, yet youth implicate female staff in 95 percent of incidents of staff sexual abuse, where 92% of those abused youth are boys.

Women inmates have a history of victimization while in custody.

While female corrections officers are relatively new in the field, they are often the perpetrators of staff sexual misconduct against both male and female inmates.

Male inmates and youth may not feel that they are victims in their sexual interactions with female.
